GASOLINE ALLEY IS AN over-used and much-abused term that has been applied to various cities in this county (including Campbell) that seem to have a preponderance of gas stations.

Almost every city, with the possible exception of Monte Sereno and Los Altos Hills, from time to time have attempted to control the number of service stations within their respective city limits through some type of legislative action.

At least the city people have talked about doing something about it.

In Campbell, after a number of false starts, the ordinance restricts any new stations to shopping centers and to intersections of major streets.

Some of the other cities are even more restrictive.

OBVIOUSLY THERE IS A danger when an attempt is made to legislate against one particular type of business.

The hue and cry is raised that this would be discriminitory action and that, in this country, one type of private enterprise should not be more fettered than another.

In other words, even if it is not feasible from an economic point of view to have a gas station on every corner or in every block, that should be the guy's own business who pumps the gas.

And, if he can't make it, that's his problem and not the city's.

-0-

ON THE SURFACE THAT argument sounds pretty solid.

But a gas station is a sort of peculiar animal.

Granted that most of them are operated by private individuals; it is generally the oil company that is involved in starting 'em.

But it is always sort of sad to see these closed-up stations (and there are quite a few around now) while the paternal oil company looks around for another operator.

So, despite the argument that the city should not enter the picture as to whether another station is going to make it or not, the fact remains that CLOSED stations do have a bearing on a municipality's image.

Thus, gas-stationitis probably should be diagnosed and treated.

But like the common cold, it may never be cured.

STUDIES AND SURVEYS of the problem are made at irregular intervals in various communities which, of course, is the inevitable course of action.

It used to be said that the American way of doing things was to appoint a committee.

Now, that is supplemented with "studies and surveys".

It is surprising how many "studies and surveys," have been filed away in our own office on various civic problems in a city, county or state range.

They all represent a lot of man-hours and dollars and most have attractive covers and make quite an impressive array.

We have shelves full of 'em.

But we must confess that we seldom refer to them.

Most of them are out-dated shortly after they are issued.

Take service stations, as an example.

We note that recently the neighboring town of Cupertino has just completed a study on service stations, a commendable venture to be sure.

The report indicates that someone had dreamed up a formula that one station per 1000 population was the proper ratio which would mean on that basis, that Cupertino should have 20.

Third screen looms for drive-in Council approves zone change that permits theater expansion

In approving a zone change from R-3-S (multiples) to M-1-S (industrial) for the six-acre parcel adjacent to the Winchester Drive-in Theater, the City Council, by a 4-1 vote on Monday night, set the stage for ringing down the final curtain on that long-playing and emotion-packed civic drama, "The Case of the Third Screen".

The final act in the production, which must have set some sort of a "box-office record" for its long run, will be the anticipated approval of the use permit that will allow a third screen for the now two-screen operating Winchester Drive-In. The third screen will be located in the six-acre parcel.

The action of the City Council Monday night overruled the Planning Commission recommendation which had denied the zone change request of Syufy Enterprises, owners of the theater as well as the partially land-locked six-acre plot.

The parcel is now zoned R-3-S, which zoning prohibits drive-in theaters.

PODGORSEK MOVES

Councilman Bill Podgorsek, the Council's newest member and who was not a councilman when the local drama first began to unfold, made the motion to resolve the matter after almost two hours of discussion, participated in by virtually the same cast with the same lines that had featured all the previous performances.

His motion was to uphold the appeal of Syufy Enterprises from the Planning Commission ruling and needed a 4/5 majority. Councilman Ralph Doetsch seconded the motion and Councilman Bill Smeed and Mayor Dean Chamberlin voted for it. Councilman Ed Rogers cast the lone dissenting vote.

The zone change motion (from R-3-S to M-1-S) was made by Doetsch and seconded by Podgorsek with the same voting alignment.

Before wrapping up the act for the night, the Council indicated that the appeal on the use permit for the third screen would be continued until the present ordinance prohibiting residences within 1000-feet of a drive-in theater was modified.

Staff was directed to proceed immediately to draft the necessary text amendment that would remove the 1000-foot condition.

STICKY ISSUE

The action of the City Council Monday night resolved one of the most sticky zoning problems that has ever faced the city administration and, even the most rabid opponents of the third screen admitted that they were relieved that issue had finally been settled.

Complicating the issue from the start was that Syufy Enterprises, represented by Michael DiLeonardo, Sunnyvale attorney, had received approval for a 224-unit apartment complex for the six-acre parcel. Approval, however, was subject to getting access to the property from Union Ave. over a 30-foot right-of-way controlled by Fred Sahadi and Mac Morris, owners of the Paseo de Palomas mobile home park that adjoins the theater.

Negotiations between Syufy and Sahadi for the access had provided a second feature to the main show with Jules Pearlman, attorney for Sahadi, and DiLeonardo, taking the major roles in the charges, counter-charges and legal maneuvering.

The climax to this by-play came at the opening of the hearing on Monday night when it was announced that Syufy had agreed to the purchase price of $20,000 made by Sahadi. However, it was stipulated that the deal had to be completed on Monday night or it was off.

Involved also, as a sort of last-minute proposal, was the submission of a rough plan by DiLeonardo for Syufy which showed a buffer zone of 100-feet between the mobile home park and the theater with access to Union Ave. over the 30-feet right-of-way. But the entrance to the third screen area would be by a new right-of-way off McGlincey.

Present at the meeting also was Ed Stojanovich, of 255

Elementary district cuts budget from last year

A $9.1 million tentative budget, reflecting $850,000 in reductions made necessary because of the defeat of the tax increase proposal on June 2, has been approved by the Campbell Union (elementary) School District board of trustees.

The budget is more than $500,000 below last year.

The tentative budget will be filed with the Santa Clara County Office of Education by June 30. Modifications may be made in it before the final adoption on August 6.

Proposed state legislation, local assessed valuation increases and anticipated enrollment figures for next year all could have an effect on the final budget, according to Neal Royer, district superintendent.

In slashing the budget from the almost $10 million figure that had originally been considered, the trustees combined classes to reduce teacher need; revised the bus schedules to reduce transportation costs and suggested an increase in charge for the student lunch program.

The board indicated also that there are no plans for purchasing of new equipment and there will also be a drastic cut in replacement items.

Another reduction that has been authorized was the eliminiation of "towel money". District officials note that upper grade students may find it necessary to bring towels from home for use after PE classes. There is also the possibility that the shower and locker rooms may be closed.

Last year's budget that was approved in August was $9,679,633, about $500,000 more than the tentative one that has been approved. Even if the board finds it possible to replace some of the items that have been eliminated when the final figures are in, it is expected that the final budget will still be less than last year.

The tentative budget does not include any funds for educational field trips and inter-school sports programs will depend on transportation provided by parents.

In another economy move, administrative staff members will serve as substitute teachers in classes where the enrollment is expected to increase. There will also be a reduction in funds for maintenance of school plants and yards, in conference expenses and for teacher released time for visiting other schools.

Property assessments take another big hike

Property assessments in Campbell have increased over last year from two per cent in some areas to more than 10% in others, according to the county assessor's office, which has just completed the mailing of "notices of assessment" to nearly 225,000 property-owning taxpayers in the county.

County Assessor Dwight Mathiesen reports that the increase is a reflection of the current inflation in property values as well as the result of a state law.

A 1968 act of the state legislature requires all counties to calculate the approximate cash or market value of all properties and then assess them at 25 per cent of that amount.

The assessor's office claims that the increases for most property owners are running from two and a half to five per cent, compared to 10 per cent last year.

But in one section of Campbell the assessed valuation jumped 16% this year and 11% the previous year, making a 27% increase in a space of two years.

Most of the increases are on land values, Doug Parker, assistant county assessor, told The Press.

Parker also explained that almost all of the property in Campbell has been under review and re-assessed in order to meet the conditions of the state law that specifies that the assessment must be 25% on the market price.

County Assessor Mathiesen pointed out that "other than in a few pockets", no major area has received a large increase.

He added, "We feel it is better for a taxpayer to have a small increase each year, rather than a major one every four years".

Council favors people voting on lower-voting-age question

Campbell councilmen, spurred on by Rusty Hammer, chairman of the Youth Advisory Commission, on Monday night went on record favoring letting the people decide whether the voting age should be lowered. They refused, however, to endorse any of the bills now pending in the legislature on the subject.

Hammer reported that the Youth Commission by its first official resolution had approved the lowering of the voting age to 18 and urged the Council to immediately endorse the bills that were now in the hopper in Sacramento.

The councilmen, however, would not be rushed into it.

They agreed to have City Clerk Dorothy Trevethan send a report of their action to the legislators.

In another action affecting a city commission, the Council appointed Ted L. Thorsen, of 568 Sobrato Drive. to the Parks and Recreation Commission to fill the vacancy created when Bill Podgorsek was elected to the City Council.

The Parks and Recreation Commission had made the recommendation that Thorsen be appointed after screening all six of the applicants for the vacancy.

Chairman Don Hebard, of the P&R Commission, presented Thorsen to the Council.

The Council on Monday night also directed staff to research more thoroughly the request of A. C. Currie for removal of the fire plug that is now located in front of the building he owns at 2094-96 Winchester.

Currie claims that the plug was located there after the street had been widened and it left only one parking space in front of the building and that the business of his tenants have suffered because of it.

Fire Chief George Maxwell had reported to the Council that removing and relocating a fire plug would cost more than $1000.

The Council also deferred action on the request of E.A. Winchester who desires to operate a youth recreation center at 1550 LaPradera Ave. The Council wanted a full report from Police Chief John Morgan before acting on the request.

First reading of the new tow-away ordinance was also

Campbell schools hold special summer recreational programs

Schools in both Campbell High School and Campbell Elementary districts are out for the summer.

Summer recreational programs are under way in most of the schools on all levels, and many special classes will be held, including swimming lessons, summer music, gymnastics, industrial arts and a reading program at the Campbell City Library, and at 17 of the grammar schools.

The gymnastics program will be held at Rolling Hills School and Monroe School with four two-week sessions starting June 15. The program is open to all school age boys and girls and adults with classes varying from 1½ hours to two-hour sessions.

A special all-girls class will be held at Monroe School from 2 to 4 p.m. with Mrs. Jean Campbell, women's gymnastics coach at Branham High School as teacher. Tumbling, trampoline, balance beam, vaulting and floor exercises will be taught in all classes. Directors are Don Peckham and Jim LaBerge.

The Industrial Arts summer shop program will be conducted on three different levels. July 6 through July 10 has been scheduled for sixth grade students; July 13 through July 24 for seventh grade students and July 27 through August 7 for eighth grade students. Two three-hour schedules per day for each session will give students a chance to work on large projects.

The instrumental music program will be held July 6 through August 7 from 9 a.m. to 12 noon, at the Campbell Elementary School, culminating in a concert on August 6 at the Civic Auditorium in San Jose. Students must furnish their own instruments.

The summer recreation program at the 17 elementary schools will begin on Monday, July 6 and run through August 7, Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. All playgrounds will be supervised by at least two or three qualified leaders. Children having completed kindergarten will be eligible to participate. There will be team games, arts and crafts, tumbling, movies and special events.

Swimming classes started at all Campbell High School district pools Monday, June 22, and will run through the summer for two-week sessions. Starting at 9:50 every weekday morning, 30-minute classes will be held. Recreational swimming will open at 1:30 to 4:30 p.m. Several pools will hold adult lessons two nights a week from 7 to 8:30 p.m.

At the Campbell High School, Buc's Cove opened June 22, and will be open Monday, Wednesday and Friday from 7 p.m. to 11. Any Campbell High School District student who has completed the eighth grade and will be a high school student next year is eligible to attend.

A dance will be held June 29 from 8 to 11 p.m. Club cards are available for $1. Games, pool, ping-pong, volleyball and basketball are all scheduled for the summer high school recreation program.

Further information on the elementary school recreation program may be had by calling Mrs. Melva Miller, 378-3405. Individual pool schedules are available by calling the school pool phone numbers listed in the phone book.

Single-family homes?

This newspaper regularly reports the status of the building permit situation in Campbell, comparing the monthly total to the previous year and the previous month.

There is no question that the so-called tight money situation and the high interest rates have had an adverse effect on the local building scene.

Last year the number of building permits issued was less than the previous year. This year the building permit parade is behind last year, although there are indications that some of the 'big stuff" that is pending will send this year ahead eventually.

A review of the building activity in Campbell reveals some interesting points.

For example, there has been an increase in dollar amount in some instances, although fewer permits have been issued.

Although the commercial and industrial building remains constant, the residential building in Campbell is something else again.

Through May of this year there have been only three permits for multiple dwellings for a total of $1,548,814 with no duplex permits issued.

Through May of the previous year there were 13 multiples (nine duplexes and four larger) for a total of $662,407, less than half the dollar amount of this year's total of THREE permits.

There are a number of conclusions that can be drawn from those figures.

But what concerns us to a great degree, and the Planning Commission also took note of the same thing at a recent meeting, is the almost complete absence of permits for single-family dwelling units in Campbell.

Last year, if you recall, there were only two permits issued in the entire 12 months for single family residences. Through May last year there had been one permit for $23,864.

This year through May there has not been a single such permit.

We are well aware that the cost of land is high in Campbell.

Developers claim almost tearfully that they can't come out of it by building one-family dwellings on such expensive land.

So they constantly are requesting that the land now zoned for single-family (R-1) be changed so that multiple units can be constructed on the properties to bring in needed income for the city (through taxes)--and to the property owners.

Now we recognize that almost every person desires to get as much return from his property that is possible.

Obviously the higher the density per square foot, the income from that property will increase accordingly.

But first it must be determined whether the single-family dwelling is to go out of existence in this community.

If this is to be a city of duplexes, four-plexes, eight-plexes, and so on, then, naturally, there is no need for R-1 zoning any place in town.

But we are not yet convinced that is the way to go for Campbell.

We are well aware of the change in the concept toward apartment-dwelling living that has taken place in recent years.

And we concede that constant increase in assessed valuation for the individual property owner, plus ever-increasing taxes, has not made many points for the single-family residence.

There is a definite need for apartments. (One expert has indicated that single-family units are much more expensive for a municipality to service than multiples and that the town-house complex is the only answer.)

But we still believe that in a community such as Campbell there should be a balance.

A majority of the Planning Commission indicated that same feeling also at a recent meeting when a zone change was denied which would allow a complex of duplexes to be built on property that is now zoned for single-family homes.

The Planning Commissioners emphasized that the general plan called for that particular area to be developed for one-family homes. They saw no reason to change it.

Of course, the property owner of that parcel has every right to complain.

The requested zone-change would make the parcel much more valuable, incomewise to them.

And it may be some time before any developer will feel that it was feasible from an economic point of view to construct single-family homes on that particular acreage.

Yet a guideline, a specific area plan, has been established and it either should be adhered to or the whole thing should be discarded.

Commissioner Jack Healey admitted that it might be necessary to "sit on" the property for some time, if duplexes or multiples were not allowed to be built on it.

But Healey added that, if the City of Campbell was going to retain its fast-diminishing R-1 areas, that was the way it had to be.

We agree.

We do not believe that Campbell's general plan, which was adopted just two years ago after months of study, research and hearings, is already so out-dated that it has to be discarded as a guideline.

There have been changes in concept and there will be more in the future.

But we still don't believe the one-family home is doomed.

MORE ABOUT

However, the city had 30 with about five more pending.

The report also came to the rather obvious conclusion that service station usage in Cupertino was the "most predominate type of land use" in that community.

-0-

ON A COMPARISON BASIS, the latest State Board of Equalization report shows that Campbell had 47 stations in 1969 with taxable retail sales of $1,080,000 for the year. (Cupertino showed 28 stations doing $894,000.)

Sort of interesting in an economic way; Campbell had 45 stations in 1968 doing $1,204,000 in taxable retail sales.

In other words, two more stations in 1969 but less sales!

We hasten to add that we have no idea what to do about it.

If anything.

You gotta have 'em.

Cars can't be driven without gas.

And then we wouldn't have our smog to worry about.

But that's another chapter.

-0-

THOSE ASSESSMENT notices that hit the county taxpayers recently certainly shook people up a bit.

We have yet to hear of anyone who didn't get an increase over last year.

And some of the increases in this area particularly were mighty steep.

Have you tried calling the assessor's office since the "notices of assessment" were mailed out?

Don't try then unless you are of the patient sort.

It's quite an experience. Your arm will get tired while you are "on hold".

We doubt that the assessor's harried staff has had a chance to do whatever they do after they have made their annual pitch except answer the phones. But we did manage to have an edifying conversation on the subject with Doug Parker, assistant county assessor.

As a result we may know more about the gruesome situation. But the hurt is still there.

We note in the news release that County Assessor Dwight Mathiesen is quoted as saying that the increase in assessments is a reflection of the current inflation in property values as well as the result of the state law, which specifies that properties must be assessed at 25 per cent of the cash or market value.

That we will concede.

Mathiesen is quoted as saying: "We feel it is better for a taxpayer to have a small increase each year rather than a major one every four years."

Our problem is just what is meant by "small".

Our little old house, for example, jumped 11% in assessed valuation last year over the year before.

We groaned last year, of course.

This year the notice showed that our house has gone up 17% from last year!

A 27% hike in two years!

Theoretically, when the assessment goes up the tax base for a tax-levying body is in that much better shape.

The tax note need not be increased in order for the agencies concerned to get their needed revenues.

Unfortunately it doesn't work out that-away most of the time.

The assessment goes up, so does the tax rate.

Ouch!

IT WAS INTERESTING to note that at the annual California-Nevada conference of the Methodist Church (representing 390 churches) several resolutions were adopted pertaining to matters considerably removed from what was considered "church business" not too long ago.

It is at this conference, incidentally, that the Bishop announces the appointments of the ministers in the district.

Both the Rev. W. H. (Ben) Gould, pastor, and the Rev. Alan R. Goozee, associate, were reappointed, which pleased us mightily.

But to get back to the resolutions.

One favored the recognition of Red China with both Red China and Nationalist China becoming members of the UN.

Another one could be classified as a peace resolution, as it favored the cutoff of federal funds if the U.S. troops aren't out of southeast Asia by Dec. 31.

The body also favored the adopting of legislation in California which would prohibit Californians serving in the army in an undeclared war. (The so-called Massachusetts resolution which Assemblyman John Vasconcellos is trying to move through the state legislature.)

The resolutions were adopted by a divided vote in all cases, which is about par for the course.

Incidentally, that undeclared war proposal was recently discussed by Campbell's Youth Advisory Commission.

And the kids turned down a resolution favoring it. By a divided vote.

But it is going to be brought up again. So don't make book.

Anyway, it is our observation that things in general in this country are sorta divided.

Or had you noticed?

ON CAPITOL HILL

with "Charlie" Gubser

As one who respects Congress as an institution vital to free government, I have never sought publicity by constantly deriding it. Nevertheless, I must sav that in this complicated year of 1970 when government has grown to mammoth proportions, Congress is still operating under procedures which were outmoded decades ago. This is why I have been a long-time advocate of congressional reform.

Some say the seniority system is the most glaring congressional defect. Admittedly, the system has frozen in a number of individuals who have gained seniority because they come from the one-party south where viable opposition is not present. But a far more serious congressional inadequacy is the information gap!

There are almost twenty million people in the Executive Branch and only 535 elected Members of Congress. So we are pitted against overwhelming numbers in our efforts to secure meaningful information. Congress is often placed in a position not unlike the businessman who asked his secretary to order lunch sent to his office. The secretary listened to the office snack bar enumerate at least a dozen different sandwiches which were available. She grew tired of writing and told her boss that he could have either ham or cheese. He chose ham thinking he made a decision. But the area of his decision making had been arbitrarily limited before he made his decision.

To a degree this is what happens in congressional decision making. Information is screened by a self-serving Executive Branch and law makers must rely on instinct and patient prodding to get all the facts they need.

In addition to its unlimited manpower, the Executive Branch also has fantastic computer power. It is possible for a member of the Executive Branch to program thousands of different questions and receive speedy answers from the computerized storehouse of government knowledge. Congress, on the other hand, does not have a single computer other than those which handle routine accounting.

If a Congressman attempts to find out the status of a current piece of legislation, he is at the mercy of some secretary in a legislative committee who responds to his time-consuming phone call. Sometimes he innocently sends incorrect information to a constituent which came from such an unreliable source.

The most crying need today is for Congress to close the information gap. Each committee could daily report its actions on pending legislation and we could have electronic access to that information. There is no reason why Congress should not be wired into Executive Branch computer systems. Subject to the needs of national security and "the need to know", Members of Congress should have access to all information paid for by the taxpayer. We should not be forced to accept only what an administration chooses to spoon feed.

With the paucity of information it has, I think the Congress has done a remarkable job. But it can do better if the information gap is closed.

Morleys' plan five generation reunion Sunday

Mr. and Mrs. John Morley, of El Patio Drive, are looking forward to the June 27 arrival of their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Roy (Edith Marie) Smith from Reynoldsburg, Ohio, and their four children.

A family reunion is being planned for Sunday, June 28 at which five generations will be present.

Generations attending will be Mrs. Morley's mother, Mrs. Jennie Pape, the Morley's two daughters, Mrs. Smith and Mrs. Robert L. Kredel and their son, John Yearwood, and their families and wives, a granddaughter, Mrs. Cheryl MacKanin and her daughter, Michele, and of course, the John Morleys.

Also present will be Mrs. Morley's sister, Mrs. Gerald Haskins from Felton, her son and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Morris from Castroville.

This will be the first family reunion since 1945, and the family has done considerable expansion since that time.

The guest list will read Mrs. Pape, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Smith and four children; Mrs. MacKanin and daughter; Mr. and Mrs. John Yearwood and John Raine and Barbara; Mr. and Mrs. Robert (Geraldine) Kredel and Robert L., Jr., Peggy and Kimberly, Mrs. Haskins and Mr. and Mrs. Morris.

Former delivery boy receives Ph.D

A former Campbell Press carrier boy is looking for a summer job. Of course, he would prefer to do something other than carry the papers, something that would fit in more with the Ph.D. degree just received from the University of Chicago.

Gerald Cunha, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Cunha of Kenneth Ave. is spending the summer with his parents following completion of his degree work at the university. A Campbell High School graduate, Cunha will be employed at Stanford University medical college in the fall where he will teach anatomy.

But in the meantime, anybody want to employ a Ph.D. for the summer?

Wedding Announced

Mr. and Mrs. Jerald Roy Hyde will be making their home in Sherman Oaks following a three-week honeymoon in Mexico. The newly-weds were married June 19 at the Beverly Hills Community Presbyterian Church, Walker Chapel. The bride is the former Diane Peschelt Smith.

Participating in the bridal party were the bride's two young daughters, Susan and Debbie.

Flying down from Campbell for the wedding were the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Homer Hyde, his grandmother, Mrs. Ralph Hyde and his two sisters, Martha and Mrs. Earl Israel and her husband.

Jerry is employed in Santa Monica by an acoustical consultant firm.

HOPE Meeting

The annual meeting of Hope for Retarded Children and Adults, Inc., a private, non-profit United Fund agency, will be held at 8 p.m. Thursday, June 25 at the Della Maggiore Center for the Mentally Retarded, 790 Thornton Way. The public is invited.

SUNDAY PLAY

"The Pigeon Roost" will be presented at the First United Methodist Church of Campbell on Winchester Ave. at 8 p.m., Sunday, June 28.

NEW PRESIDENT

Mrs. Bea Lillingston has been elected to the position of president of the Women's Fellowship, Congregational Church of Campbell.

ICE CREAM SOCIAL

The Ice Cream Social, originally announced for June 21, has been postponed to June 28 at the Congregational Church of Campbell. Delicious homemade ice cream will be served from 6 to 8 p.m. in the church mall, 400 E. Campbell Ave.

Bringing up fido

A recent visit to a friend revealed some interesting problems which can result from too little discipline.

As I explained to her, if the family dog is to enjoy a place in the family affection, he should be taught good habits and scolded for bad ones. As much as it is wrong for a member of the family to taunt him when he seeks solitude; it is wrong for him to be allowed carte blanche in his behavior.

This dog went into a rampage when the telephone rang and continued it while his mistress answered. I suggested that possibly she inadvertently jumped when the bell sounded which upset the dog.

While this is the cause of many such reactions, I think this dog had simply barked once when the phone rang, gotten a reaction, and had simply gotten into the habit of so doing.

With my help we succeeded in stopping him and hopefully will eventually break the pattern.

Owning an extremely large dog requires a great deal of firmness. A small woman with a large dog complained to me that she was afraid of hurting him when he attempted to "go at" a person or dog.

I pointed out that far better she hurt her dog than have him hurt a person. The dog was hand-shy and if she slapped his nose he blinked, ducked and continued his agressiveness. I showed her that if she cuffed him as hard as she could (with all of her 101 lbs.) and then praised him for calming down, she could do wonders.

"Timing" is the keyword when disciplining an animal. It does no good to bring him back into the yard and scold him for barking – get him while he's doing it! Don't say "no" when he gets OFF the furniture, tell him when he gets ON.

* *

Meantime, don't forget – he needs LOVE, LOVE, LOVE!

Charlene Gates delivers graduation speech at Campbell

Because of the many requests received by The Campbell Press, the speech given by Charlene Gates at the Campbell High School graduation is reproduced in this issue:

A KING'S CHOICE
BY CHARLENE GATES

Members of the Board of Trustees, Mr. Peck, Faculty, Parents and Fellow Classmates;:

Several thousand years and many civilizations ago in the ancient Kingdom of Israel, a young king called Solomon had a strange dream. The all-powerful, but loving God of his father, and his father before, appeared to him and said, "Ask what I shall give you." When he awoke, Solomon immediately replied, "Thou hast made thy servant king in place of David my father, although I am but a little child; I do not know how to go out or come in. Give thy servant therefore an understanding mind. God was pleased and said, "Because you have asked this, and have not asked for yourself long life or riches or the life of your enemies, I now do according to your word."

Solomon had asked for an understanding mind because he realized that this was the most valuable asset he could possess.

This evening, we have a decision to make that is very similar to Solomon's. We must select what attributes we want to possess. Regardless of the condition of the world, we will lead our own lives. The choice that we make will influence our lives in a very personal way. The choices will never be easy and many will act unwisely and impulsively. One mythical character who chose in this manner was Midas, the miser. Midas was given one wish. Hastily and greedily, Midas asked that everything he touched be turned to gold. He marvelled when trees, rocks, and animals became golden at his fingertips, but soon Midas discovered that his magical power was also a malicious curse. Finally, after turning his banquet, his beautiful garden and his only daughter into gold, he asked to have power removed and that everything be restored.

Just as Solomon chose for himself and Midas chose for himself, we must choose for ourselves. The choice we make must be our own. If we refuse to make our own choice, it will be made for us by the society in which we live. Aldous Huxley gives this idea its final development in his book, Brave New World. The emotions, values and inner feelings of the people are programmed from early childhood so that everyone is just alike. If we do not make our choice, the values of society will be forced on us and we will be like the citizens of the Brave New World, lacking identity, controlled, and incapable of breaking away.

But it is not enough to realize how important our choice will be. We must realize how difficult it is to make correct Choices. With so many possibilities open to us, it is too easy to pass over the insight Solomon displayed in his selection of an understanding mind. Only when we can comprehend what it is that Solomon chose can we fully appreciate Solomon's wisdom in making his choice.

There are several facets that make up an understanding mind. The first one is an open mind. This is not just a willingness to let another speak, but a commitment to listen, even if what is said is unpopular. My own objection to some student radicals is that they defend their right to speak out and demonstrate in the name of academic freedom, but deny the same privilege to everyone else. Freedom that is only extended to a few is no freedom at all. You cannot have an understanding mind and only be open to what is popular.

We must also be inquisitive, we must have the desire to investigate many different fields of study and ways of life and most importantly, many different individuals. If we are content to stay superficial in our approach to life and in our relationships to others, we will miss what Channing meant when he said, "Every man is a volume, if you know how to read him."

The last element of an understanding mind is sensitivity. To find it, we must learn how to place ourselves in the position of others. Solomon showed this kind of sensitivity in his most famous judgment. A dispute between two women who both claimed the same child as their own was brought to him to be settled. After hearing them, Solomon called for his sword and said, "Divide the child in two and give half to one and half to the other." The first woman then said, "Give her the child and by no means slay it," but the second woman said, "It shall be neither mine nor yours, Divide it." Solomon immediately knew by being able to place himself in another's position that the first woman was the mother of the child. This kind of sensitivity is an essential part of an understanding mind.

Realizing the nature and the virtues of an understanding mind, we must also be prepared to face the obstacles that block us from attaining this objective–our pride, our ego, our passion for life, procrastination, laziness, and our tendency to value what is glamorous, instead of what is good.

Solomon was a great king. God gave him more honor and riches than any king that came before him and any king that came after him. But Solomon is most famous for his wisdom. The Bible says that god "gave Solomon wisdom and understanding far beyond measure, and largeness of mind like the the sand on the seashore, so that Solomon's wisdom surpassed the wisdom of all the people of the east and all the wisdom of Egypt."

We may never have all the wisdom of Solomon or all his riches, but we can elect to have an understanding mind which will enrich all parts of our lives.

I BET YOU DIDN'T KNOW

I bet you didn't know...

Did you know that nobody has ever been able to win the Indianapolis 500 mile auto race three years in a row?...Several men in history have won it twice in a row, but nobody has ever won three straight...Closest anyone ever came to that feat was Wilbur Shaw who finished first in 1937, second in 1938, and first in 1939 and 1940.

Here's an oddity from baseball...From the time major league baseball started, in 1876, until 1946–a total of 70 years–not one big league pennant race ever finished with two teams being tied for first place at the end of a season, but in only 16 years from 1946 to 1962, oddly enough, FIVE different pennant races wound up in ties, the National League in 1956-51-59-62, and the American League in 1948!

Thieves take valued bottle collection

According to Campbell police reports the 457 Chapman Drive residence of Al Salciccia was the target of "bottle thieves" Sunday. The reports show that Salciccia called police after he and Mrs. Salciccia returned home from dining out and reported that while they were gone thieves apparently coerced his young daughter into helping them pack up his empty Jim Bean bottle collection. Salciccia placed a $5,000 valuation on the bottle collection. Nothing else was touched in the residence.

Bike thefts in Campbell continued to soar during the last week with a total of seven being reported to Campbell police in a six-day period. Many of the bikes are being stolen from the Campbell High School pool area and others from the various shopping centers. Boys ten-speed bikes apparently are the favorite target.

Richard DeLucca, 876 Marilyn Drive, returned home from work Friday evening and found that his house had been ransacked. According to police reports property valued in $1,802 was taken, including a revolver, movie camera, vibrator, tape recorder, portable color TV and antenna. The burglars even made off with his clothes hamper containing two or three dirty shirts.

Further police reports show that Der Weinerschnitzel, 1940 S. Bascom, was held up by an armed robber who made off with $35 in cash after revealing the gun and threatening the clerk in charge.

TURNING HEAD

When an owl has turned its head as far as it will go, he snaps it around to watch from the other side so quickly it appears that he has actually given his head a full turn.

Clothes made and modeled by the girls studying clothing were a feature of a recent Campbell 4-H meeting. Modeling dresses, suits or pants outfits were Kathleen Clancey, Nancy Chivers, Janice Duncan, Suann Mariane, Joyce McCue, Cindy Peterson, Carolyn Scrivano, Becky Smith, Nora Smith and Roxanne Smith. Serving as mistress of ceremonies was Caprice Tantillo.

Three members, Becky Smith, Kathy Vialiecca and Linda Vialiecca competed recently in a "Favorite Foods" contest with Becky bringing home a blue ribbon for her salad and Kathy and Linda winning blue ribbons for their main dishes.

A report was given by Nora Smith on the recent club participation in the Los Gatos Creek Park Beautification Project and the members voted they would return in June to complete the work.

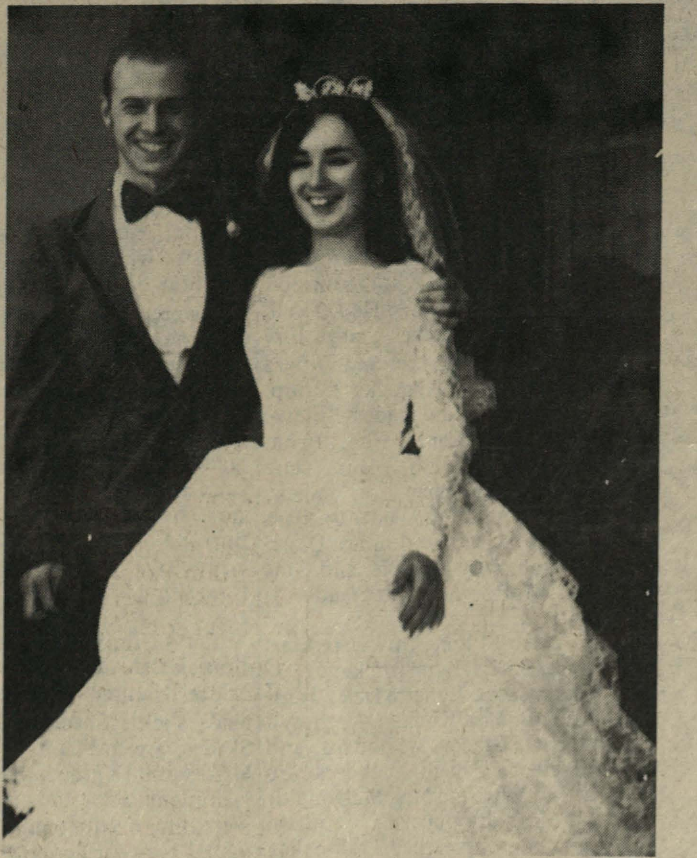
During the Fourth of July fireworks sale, a contest will be held to see which team has the greatest number of sales.

Games and refreshments concluded the meeting.

RETURNS TO BASE

Navy Petty Officer Third Class James L. Lantz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward L. Lantz of 9 N. Peter Dr., Campbell, returned to Point Mugu, Calif., with Naval Mobile Construction Battalion Three (MCB-3) after an eight-month deployment to Okinawa.

Recent ceremony united couple



MR. AND MRS. GARY CICCI

A beautiful tiered Chantilly lace gown was chosen by Mary Anne Sparks for her wedding day. Meeting her at the altar of St. Marie Goretti Church in San Jose was Gary Cicci, with Father Joseph Milani reading the double ring ceremony.

Long sleeves, a sabrina neckline and a chantilly lace veil held with a pearl circlet completed the bride's dress and she carried a colonial white carnation bouquet centered with a pink rose detachable corsage.

Giving his daughter in marriage was her father, Charles K. Sparks, owner and operator of Ken's Office Machines in Campbell.

Serving as maid of honor was Miss Irene Sparks, sister of the bride, with Chris Nelson as bridesmaid. Both attendants wore blue gowns fashioned in an empire line and carried colonial blue and white carnation bouquets.

For her daughter's wedding day Mrs. Sparks chose a lime dress with white accessories and an orchid corsage.

Gary is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Cicci, former Campbell residents now residing in Santa Barbara. Gary was graduated from Los Gatos High School and attended West Valley College before accepting employment at the California Canadian Bank. Ron Cicci stood with his brother as best man with Ross Packard, Vee Musngi and Mike Foss ushering.

Following the ceremony the new Mr. and Mrs. Cicci greeted their guests at the Country Woman's Club before leaving on their wedding trip to Disneyland. The newly-weds will make their home in San Jose.

FW 2s hold luncheon meet

The Faculty Women and Faculty Wives of West Valley College, known as FW2s, had a most delightful luncheon meeting to close the year recently at the Red Coach Inn in Vallco Village, Cupertino.

The guest of honor was Mrs. Wallace Hall, wife of the college president. Mrs. Hall was the founder of F.W.2s and even though her husband, Dr. Hall, will be retiring from the college, she will remain a welcome member of F.W.2s according to the group's constitution and sincere wishes.

Also honored were the past-presidents of the association.

Those present enjoyed a history review of their organization's years since its formation, presented by outgoing president, Mrs. John Jorgensen and Mrs. Peter Smith, historian, who had prepared a history book to that effect.

Following the luncheon Mrs. Jorgensen installed the 1970-71 officers: Mrs. Robert Fell, president; Mrs. Eugene Nyquist, vice-president; Mrs. Jennings B. Woodson, recording secretary; Mrs. James Sturrock, treasurer; Jerry G. Girdner, publicity chairman.

BROADCASTING COURSE

A Course which will lead to an FCC license for broadcasting will be offered at West Valley College this summer.

Electronics 60A will be offered in the evenings from 7 to 10 p.m. on Monday, Tuesday and Thursday. The three-unit course is unique in that West Valley is one of the few community colleges in the bay area offering this type of credit course.

Students in the course will study towards the second class commercial radiotelephone license which is a requirement for employment in many areas of broadcasting communications. Requirements for enrollment include a background in basic electronics or employment in the industry.

Electronics 50, a non-major course which surveys the field of electronics, will also be offered this summer during the days from 8 to 11 on Monday, Wednesday and Friday. No background in electronics is needed.

Campbell High graduates hear speech delivered by Steven Borsgard

Because of the many requests received by The Campbell Press, the speech given by Steven Borsgard at the Campbell High School graduation is reproduced in this issue:

THERE IS A TIDE OF MEN
BY STEVEN BORSGARD

There is a river that divides the nations of Israel and Jordan following the same course it has followed for thousands of years. It is the River Jordan. At two places in the vast plain through which it flows, the land is hollowed out and allows the waters to spread over its normal banks.

One of these places is the Sea of Galilee; the other is the Dead Sea. The Sea of Galilee is fresh and sweet and filled with life. But the Dead Sea is completely without life. It is completely stagnant. The most remarkable thing is that the same waters that form the Sea of Galilee also form the Dead Sea.

The condition of our times is like the stagnant Dead Sea. Recently, this contrast most clearly came to mind as I read several magazine articles which I'd like to share with you.

One article discussed air pollution in this fashion:

"Most industrialists feel about smog the way the New Hampshire preacher felt about sin. They're against it. The trouble is, the scientists and municipal authorities can't agree on what to do about it.

"The scientists said let's not be hasty. There's too much still to be learned before smog can be combated economically and efficiently.

"The government boys said let's get on with it. We can wipe out smog tomorrow if we can get tough."

Another article expressed the economic crisis:

"A glance around and troubles seem to jump up on every hand. Much more money will be pouring out of this nation's treasury than is coming in. The President will be forced to ask Congress to raise the ceiling on debt or to try to reduce expenses. With less revenue, budget troubles will grow. Unemployment will continue to increase."

A final headline speaks of a crisis that concerns us more than either of these domestic troubles. It reads: "If Peace Fails: Air War To Move On China.

"Peace talks faltering badly at this time, have gotten nowhere in more than six months. Communist negotiations have indicated that they will never accept present rock-bottom terms. American negotiators are about convinced that only by new military pressure can communists be induced to settle."

These are indeed all serious problems, and we may even be angered to think that such small steps have been taken to solve them. But we can only realize how little change has been accomplished when we consider that the articles I have been quoting from were written in 1952. And surely, further investigation could trace them back still further.

An old Spanish proverb seems to sum it up quite well: The more things change, the more they remain the same.

As we graduate tonight, it becomes only too clear that we are entering a society which has groped for answers long before this generation ever came along.

It also becomes clear to us that if we are to avoid this stagnation, this total absence of change, if we are to avoid the mistakes of the past, if we are to change the recurring cycle of history–then we must fully embrace and deserve the name that has been given us–the "aware generation."

For it has been stated that we are "more sophisticated, more mature, more honest, more sensitive, more intellectually able, and more inquiring... (We) are more ready to accept social responsibility, more interested in other human beings and less interested in 'success' as measured" by past generations.

However, we can exhibit all of these attributes without really doing anything–thus dooming ourselves to the same stagnation that has been with us for years.

To be fully aware is not really enough–only the first step. We must do more than look and look and never observe. Rather, the goal must be to look and to see, to act and to react to what is seen. This is the purpose of awareness, and the ultimate outcome is a personal commitment dictated by our own conscious and our own concepts of justice, order, and well being.

Perhaps the dynamics of awareness are best exemplified by the experience of a friend of mine, who just last year graduated from Campbell High, and is presently attending the University of California at Santa Barbara.

During his first months on campus, he found that he was sympathetic to the causes for which the other students were protesting.

To demonstrate his sympathies, he joined a march on the administration building. The leaders of the protest were moving around, continually whipping up the crowd. And while this was going on, more and more police were arriving. It was obvious that the police were about to act and that violence might result.

Since it was late in the afternoon, the building was locked, and the officials had all gone home, my friend realized that nothing could be accomplished. There wouldn't even be anyone in the building until the next day.

Hoping to avoid the impending violence, he tried to persuade the leaders to break up the crowd and come back tomorrow.

The leaders stood firm saying that they weren't the leaders; they had no control over the crowd; these people were free to protest in any manner they wanted to.

Since persuading the leaders was useless, he began talking to the people in the crowds. His efforts with them were just as ineffective.

Believing he had no place in protest of that nature, he withdrew from the crowd. The police moved in, and in the ensuing melee, several arrests were made and many students were injured.

The point is that the crowd looked and looked, and never saw. My friend looked and saw and realized that to protest at that time was useless.

Truly, his personal commitment displays a true sense of awareness.

Shakespeare seemed to capture the essence of awareness when he wrote:

"There is a tide in the affairs of men
Which, taken at the flood,
leads on to fortune;

. . . .

And we must take the current when it serves,
Or lose our ventures."

The Senior Class of 1970, must be willing to take the tide at its flood or history will continue to repeat itself and we will be caught in the same vicious cycle as so many around us.

THE PHONE BOOTH

You might think "instant replay" is only used in football games on TV, but the Phone Company is also taking advantage of this technique at one of our training schools for installers. The installers—people who put in your phone—practice their jobs with other Telephone people who take the role of customers. These practice sessions, which simulate situations our men encounter on the job, are videotaped and replayed so the men can see how well they performed. Besides checking to see that they install the equipment correctly, we're also interested in their grooming, deportment and ability to handle situations. This is another way we try to make sure our installers are real pros before they go out on the job.

Smokey the Bear reminds you that human carelessness is the greatest cause of fires in our forests. Most fires occur during the dry summer months, so please be especially careful during this hazardous time.

The Question Box

NEW HONORS--Mark Donnell, Blackford High School senior, right, was one of eight in the United States and the only western student to win an Atomic Energy Commission Award at the International Science Fair. His project was an ion linear accelerator which he built to devise a cheaper method of producing radio isotopes used in medicine and metal fault detection. With Mark is James F. Riley, center, president of Signetics, Inc. who was responsible for providing supporting funds for the 10th annual Valley Science Fair and for sending Mark and his fellow winner at the local Science Fair, Steve Fong, left, to the International Fair.

On the team were Sgt. Bob Wallace, Agent Jim Stoner, Agent Roger Hibgy and Police Officer Ron Pennington. Team members shot a score of 1045 with a possible of 1200.

SWEETS FOR THE SWEET--Jill Hunt and Cindy-Jane Cleveland accept candy from "Snow White" during the puppet show that climaxed the Campbell Parents Co-op Nursery School graduation program.

WORKSHOP

A legislative action workshop conducted by Mrs. W.A. Von Schoeler and Mrs. James McEwan, legislative co-chairmen, will be held Thursday, June 25, 11 a.m. at the Christian Church, 17765 Daves Ave., Los Gatos, by the West Valley Republican Women. Bring a bag lunch, coffee and tea will be served. A writer session will be held.

SILVA LEAVES

Campbell Police Agent Anthony Silva will be leaving the force on July 1 for private business, according to Police Chief John Morgan. Silva will be employed by the Astro Plating in Redwood City. He has been with the city for six and one-half years.

Final filing date for the vacancy in the department is June 30.

College budget goes $6 million over last year

A preliminary budget of $17.7 million has been approved by trustees of West Valley College District and forwarded to the county superintendent of schools. The budget is $6 million over the budget of the previous year.

Over one half ($1,038,551) represents projected building costs relating to the construction of five buildings on the Saratoga campus with $5 million of that amount in combined state and federal grants and loans.

Action on salary increases for all staff was deferred until the July 2 meeting.

Board member Don Lindstrom, upon an administrative recommendation, stated the district would know better at that time its financial status. This belief is based on the premise that the state budget will be finalized by that time. Currently the state budget is in a joint committee of members of the Assembly and the Senate who will try to hammer out a compromise bill by the end of June.

The tax rate will be determined by funds required against the assessed valuation of the district which will be known in July. The current assessed valuation of the district is $725 million.

The faculty salary committee, headed by Robert Russell, presented their final salary proposal Thursday asking for an average 6.28 per cent increase. The faculty's previous proposal had asked for 7.35 per cent.

The administrative recommendation included a 5.6 per cent cost of living increase. The net effect of the superintendent's recommendations was a 6.04 per cent increase in the salaries paid faculty members over the current year.

In deferring action on the question of salary increases, the board did adopt a resolution reserving the right to increase salaries for district personnel in the 1970-71 fiscal year.

The budget timetable now calls for the preliminary budget to be sent to the county and returned to the district by mid-July. A publication budget must be adopted by the latter part of July and the final budget must be adopted by the board by the first week in August.

Thursday night the board also commended Dr. Wallace W. Hall, superintendent-president, on his seven years of service to the district, and concurred in the recommendation by the students of the college that the student union now under construction at the Saratoga campus be known as the Wallace W. Hall Building, or simply "The Hall".

The board also changed the name of the district at its meeting. Due to a bill signed into law by Governor Reagan May 12, junior colleges, throughout the state can now change their names to community colleges. In line with this bill the district will now be known as the West Valley Joint Community College District, when the new law becomes effective at that time.

In other action Thursday night the board:

Approved a number of change orders with the Horne-Zwick Construction Co. in a contract for the language arts-social science project under construction at Saratoga, the net effect of which was to reduce the cost of the project by $28,000. Gene Arnold, dean of campus facilities, informed the board that 43 per cent of the work had been completed on the project in 30 per cent of the time.

Approved the conference attendance of William H. Deal, coordinator of Community Services, at the American College Public Relations Association conference in Denver, Colo., in July.

Approved the following personnel items: accepted with regret the resignation of Mrs. Edith Schorr, medical secretary; granted a six-month extension of a leave of absence to Mrs. Lee Whitcombe, library clerk, for medical reasons; extended the appointment of Mrs. Rena Batiste, serving as a substitute library clerk for Mrs. Whitcombe for six months; and appointed Alfredo Salazar as stock clerk.

Congratulated Joe Salque, a full-blooded Indian student, who is graduating from West Valley College this week, upon his winning the International Association of Machinists Scholarship ($2,000 per year for two years).

Local library starts summer reading program

The Santa Clara County Free Library, Campbell branch summer reading club started June 13 with the theme "Summer reading is out of this world." More than 200 children participated in last year's program and more are expected to sign up this year.

All children wishing to sign up should read one book or more after summer vacation has begun, return it to the library, and ask for their reading folders. A record of each child's summer reading will be kept in his folder. Those children who read 10 books or more by August 15, the program's closing date, will be given certificates at the special awards program later in August.

The children's librarian, Mrs. Sandra Kelly, will be happy to help children make selections for their summer reading.

Another feature of the Campbell library's summer program will be the children's story hours designed especially for children between five and nine years of age, held on Wednesday afternoons at 2 p.m. during July.

O.E.S. BALL

Campbell Chapter, Order of Eastern Star No. 553, will enjoy a Fiesta Ball, Friday, June 26 at 8 p.m. at the Odd Fellows Hall, 276 E. Campbell Ave.

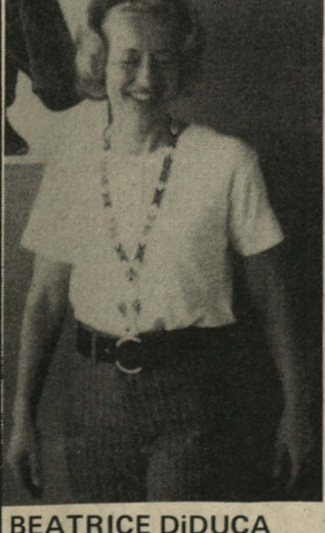
THIS WEEK'S SPOTLIGHT ON



BEATRICE DiDUCA

Shown above is Beatrice (Mrs. Joe) DiDuca, who has operated the new "PANT HOLE" in Kirkwood Plaza since last April.

The Pant Hole, featuring a huge line of Levi pants and jeans for men, women and children, is the successor to MacLean's men's wear store.

With pants becoming more and more emphasized in the world of fashion as well as the work-a-day world, the new store features pants almost exclusively, with the exception of related accessories.

Beatrice and her husband, Joe, reside in Los Gatos with their three children, 2 girls and a boy. Until opening the Pant Hole, Beatrice had been associated with her husband in their mechanical contracting business, which Mr. DiDuca still operates. This is Beatrice's first venture into retail business and she's taking to it like ducks to water.

given by the Council on Monday. The ordinance would regulate fees charged by private tow-away firms that thrive on removing vehicles from parking lots.

The Council also approved the recommendation of City Manager Bob Stephens and Bill Wren, public works director, promoting Bob Diaz to public works supervisor from his present position of public works foreman.

Stephens and Wren explained that the promotion of the two men was part of the reorganization plan for the department which they believed would make for greater efficiency.

Diaz and West had been operating in the positions since Jan. 1, 1970 when Ken Hickman, public works superintendent, had resigned.

The reorganization plan, Wren added, would eliminate the position of superintendent and allow for better coordination with the engineering staff, under Frank Lewis, associate city engineer.

MORE ABOUT

Third screen

Union, who with his mother owns approximately 17 acres of orchard land adjacent to the theater and mobile home park.

Through his attorney, Vincent C. Seveley, of Palo Alto, the Council was informed that Stojanovich favored a third screen on the property in preference to apartments.

RESIDENTS OBJECT

It was from the residents of the Paseo de Palomas mobile home park that most of the opposition to the proposed third screen had been generated.

Representatives of the 106-unit park had attended almost every Planning Commission or City Council meeting that had been held on the issue. And a delegation was on hand again Monday night.

Paul S. Limerick, of 54 Palomar Real, acted as the main spokesman for the group as he had on past occasions, although a number of other residents of the park also took part in the discussion and indicated how high the feelings had run on the issue.

The residents candidly admitted that they would prefer neither apartments nor theater, if they had a choice.

It was also reported that anonymous letters had been circulated in the park signed "concerned neighbor" pointing out alleged disadvantages to an apartment complex and suggesting that the residents favor the third screen instead.

Charges and countercharges were made as to who was responsible for the circulation of the letters but it was admitted that some of the residents had indicated that they did favor a third screen over apartments.

Limerick, as leader of the mobile home contingent, told his followers not to respond either way when Councilman Smeed asked for a show of hands by those who favored the third screen or the apartments and no hands were raised.

According to City Attorney Joe Bonacina, the proposed text amendment that would remove the 1000-foot condition in the present ordinance will go first to the Planning Commission before the Council acts on it.

Bonacina indicated that as soon as the amendment was adopted, the Council can then take action on the appeal of the use permit for the third screen.

City's tentative Budget receives Council approval

Campbell City Council was expected to adopt the preliminary city budget for the 1970-71 fiscal year on Tuesday night (after press time) totalling $4.9 million. But more changes are expected to be made in it before it is finally adopted in August after the assessment valuation figures are firmed up.

The Council has held three budget sessions prior to last night's final.

The tentative budget follows the recommendation of City Manager Bob Stephens with only minor changes. It allows for no new personnel and cuts down other phases in the city government.

Stephens had recommended no funds for out-of-city meetings or conferences (totalling $18,000 last year) but the Council restored $1400 for the state league conference. That was one of the few changes made.

In another fiscal matter the Council on Monday night approved 13 change orders in the contract for the new city hall for a total reduction of $19,618 in the total cost.

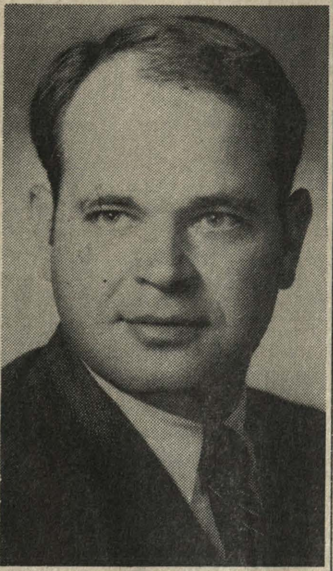
The largest single item was eliminating gates and roll down screens in the administrative wing for $5823. Still under discussion is a change order affecting the air conditioning system which could bring the total reduction to more than $30,000.

The Council also accepted the completion of Local Improvement District No. 18 which included the widening and improving of Bascom and part of Hamilton.

Bill Wren, public works director, told the Council that this was the largest improvement project ever undertaken locally and with the utility improvements totalled approximately $1,250,000.

Frank Lewis, associate city engineer, who was present for the final action, thanked the councilmen for their cooperation over the years that it took to get the project under way and completed. Lewis, who was project engineer, said that his preliminary work on the job had started in 1966.

It was announced at the Council meeting on Monday that a special meeting had been called by the Parks and Recreation Commission for this Wednesday, (June 24) at 7:30 p.m. in the City Hall to review the preliminary plans for Rincon Park to be presented by Kenneth Arutunian, landscape architect.



NEW MANAGER---David V. Campbell has been named manager of Bank of America's new East Ridge Center branch in East San Jose, according to A. W. Clausen, president.

The branch will open in temporary quarters June 22 at 1970 Tully Road.

Campbell had served at the bank's International Science Center branch in Sunnyvale since 1969. He joined Bank of America four years ago.

Campbell is a graduate of Fresno State College.

He and his wife, Jane, have two children.
